of little essays on ancient poets. Why don't you give us some Comment and Conjecture on my old favorite, Juvenal?

LIBRARIAN

While the printing of reviews has always been of prime importance, and I have approved of your policies regarding them, I have been gratified to see the devices you have adopted to make up for them now that there is so little being published that merits review. Not only the short comments but the longer papers accepted have added to the dignity and value of CW. Yet a word of warning is not out of place. You cannot continue to give us long papers in a small journal. Leave them to the quarterlies and annuals. Let CLASSICAL WEEKLY bring us news and those neatly-grouped little Comments which are already a distinguished contribution to scholarliness.

NEW ENGLANDER

At the recent meeting of the Executive Committee of the Classical Association of the Atlantic States I was directed to open the pages of CW to discussions of policies, especially with regard to the ownership of this publication. Readers are heartily requested to send for publication their opinions on these topics. Every idea that may lead to improvement of CLASSICAL WEEKLY or to extending its usefulness will be made welcome.
